This week’s issue

Applying computer games technology to veterinary teaching, p 63
Parasitic infections in captive psittacine birds, p 69
Cranial osteomyelitis due to E coli infection in laying hens, p 76

54 Comment
54 Weathering the cuts

55 News and Reports
55 Safeguarding global health: FAO calls for a ‘paradigm shift’
56 Government ‘will not shy away’ from difficult decisions on bovine TB
56 EFSA recommends a toolbox of indicators for monitoring welfare at slaughter
57 Voting opens in BVA Council elections
57 Centralise surveillance diagnostics in Scotland, says Moredan CEO
58 Recognising – and promoting – excellent care of working equids
59 AHVLA clarifies bovine TB testing instructions
60 UK charity vets get a US perspective on shelter medicine
61 Focus on emergency medicine

58 News in Brief
63 Feature
63 Applying games technology to veterinary teaching (M. Balogh)

65 Research
65 Border disease virus: time to take more notice? (T. Sandvik)
67 Development and review of the voluntary phase of a national BVD eradication programme in Ireland (D. A. Graham and others)

68 Effect of period, water temperature and agitation on loss of water-soluble carbohydrates and protein from grass hay; implications for equine feeding management (A. C. Longland and others)
69 Natural bovine disease virus infection in feedlot lambs (J. M. González and others)
69 Internal and external parasitic infections in captive psittacine birds (L. Bernardi and others)

70 Research Digest
71 Viewpoint
71 The RCVS codes of conduct: what’s in a word? (S. McCulloch and others)

73 Gazette
75 Letters
75 Keeping exotic pets (R. Kock)
76 Cranial osteomyelitis due to E coli infection in commercial layers (D. Giovannardi)
76 Controlling Angiostrongylus vasorum infection in dogs (L. Bird and others)

66 Vet Record Careers
i Making a business of CPD
ii Ten-minute chat