This week’s issue

International graduates welcomed to the RCVS Register, p 345
Honorary degrees for former Liverpool vet students, p 347
APHA marks World Rabies Day with a themed cake bake, p 349

342 Comment
342 Pet travel rules OK?

343 News and Reports
343 Defra seeks views on the delivery of pet travel legislation
344 BVA hopes for a ‘national conversation’ on brachycephalic dogs
344 UK animal health product supplier acquired by French veterinary laboratory
344 New chairman for Moredun Scientific
345 RCVS expands its fellowship
345 New Registrar appointed
345 Examination success
346 EU survey suggests a lack of awareness of the benefits of veterinary medicines
347 Honorary degrees for former Liverpool vet students
348 UK ‘among the most nature-depleted countries in the world’
348 Collaborative effort to help safeguard the health and welfare of moorland ponies
349 Rabies control: going beyond human and animal health services
350 Questioning the evidence while keeping an open mind
351 Recognition for a career of investigation and influence

352 Surveillance
352 Small animal disease surveillance: pruritus, and coagulase-positive staphylococci

356 Research
356 Tracing disease emergence: canine babesiosis in the UK (N. Johnson)
358 Canine babesiosis and tick activity monitored using companion animal electronic health records in the UK (F. Sánchez-Vizcaíno and others)
359 Development of a vaccine against Streptococcus agalaciae in fish based on truncated cell wall surface anchor proteins (H. Liu and others)

360 Research Digest
361 Books
362 Gazette
363 Letters
363 Expansion of the range of the West Nile virus vector in Essex (B. Cull and others)
364 Wildlife rescue and rehabilitation guidelines (M. Studworthy)
364 Role of glutamine in oral rehydration of calves (A. R. Michell)

365 Products and Services
365 Vet Record Careers
365 Really mixed practice – a career in conservation medicine

Discover nature’s way to unlock the full potential of your clients’ herds

LifeStart is an innovative calf nutrition programme designed to bring science-based and sustainable practices to the optimization of dairy performance. To find out more visit lifestarts science.com trouwnutrition.co.uk